Extra Money

During lunch, an ad for a lending institution came on the television set in our employees' lounge. As the commercial extolled the pleasures of extra money, I remarked that there was no such thing as "extra" money.

"Yes, there is," my co-worker retorted. "It's what you have right before your car breaks down."

Groaner #1

Two nuns, a penguin, a man with a parrot on his shoulder, and a giraffe walk into a bar.

The bartender says, "What is this? Some kind of joke?"

Busy Mom

Since I am a busy mom of four, I rely on my children to help me out with everyday chores around the house. One morning I was running around trying to get the children and myself ready, when I suddenly realized it was trash pickup day. So I handed a bag of garbage to my sleepy seven-year-old and told him to toss it in the trash bin on his way out the door.

Glancing out my window moments later, I saw him wearily boarding the bus. He was carrying his backpack, his lunchbox, and a big white bag of garbage.

Homework

Once I'd finished reviewing my daughter's homework, I gave her an impromptu quiz. "What is a group of whales called?" I asked. I'll give you a hint, it sounds like something you use to listen to music."

"An iPod?" she guessed.

"Close," I said. "But what I'm thinking of is a little smaller."

"A shuffle!"

Waitress

As a waitress, I stopped at a table to see if anyone needed anything.

The mother seated there asked, "May I have some more dressing for my salad?"

"Anything else?" I replied thinking I could avoid making two trips.

The little girl at the table knew how to take a hint.

"Please," she added.

Internet

I was in a couple's home trying to fix their internet connection. The husband called out to his wife in the other room for the computer password, "Start with a capital S, then 123," she shouted back.

We tried S123 several times, but it didn't work. So we called the wife in. As she input the password, she muttered, "I really don't know what's so difficult about typing Start123."

Groaner #2

They told me I had type A blood, but it turns out it was a type-O.
