Sick Child

The terrified parents rushed their four-year-old son to the emergency room with a terrible cough, high fever, and vomiting.

The doctor did a thorough exam, then asked the boy what bothered him the most. After thinking it over, he said hoarsely, "I would have to say my little sister."

Uncle Tony

My brother, Tony, agreed to take his young nephews to a neighborhood picnic. A few hours later, just as my father was wondering how Tony was managing, my mother walked into the room brandishing her cell phone, laughing.

Dad took it from her and read aloud the text message she had just received: "Marshmallows burned, ketchup in hair, kids tossing newspapers on bonfire, smoke all over. Great party, Kids happy. Never again. Am smarter, Much smarter."

Bad Golf Day

Gerry was having a really bad day on the golf course. Right around the 14th hole, it seems he had missed one putt too many. He let loose with a fairly impressive temper tantrum, grabbed his putter, and stormed off toward the lake by the 15th tee.

"Uh-oh," said his caddie to one of his playing partners, "there goes that club."

"You think so?" said his playing partner. "I've got five bucks on him missing the water."

Bragging Dad

At the company water cooler, I bragged about my children's world travels: one son was teaching in Bolivia, another was working in southern Italy, and my daughter was completing a year long research project in India.

One co-worker's quip, however, stopped me short. "What is it about you," he asked, "that makes your kids want to get so far away?"

Cinnamon Rolls

At breakfast one day, I eagerly waited for my husband to comment on my first attempt at homemade cinnamon rolls.

After several minutes with no reaction, I asked, "If I baked these commercially, how much do you think I could get for one of them?"

Without looking up from his paper my husband replied, "About 10 years."

Family Photos

A young boy was looking through some old family photos and asked his mother, "Who is the guy on the beach with you with all the muscles and curly hair?"

"That's your father," she replied.

"Then who's that man who lives with us now?"
