Cooking

Our 17-year-old daughter has finally shown some interest in cooking. Recently, while we were watching TV, she was baking some French fries and asked me to pause the show. In less than a minute, she came back to the den.

"What was that about?" I asked.

She said that the instructions told her to turn the fries halfway through cooking.

I remarked that she was pretty fast in flipping all those fries.

"Is that what it meant?" she replied. "I just turned the pan around."

Hungry Lion

A hungry lion roamed through the jungle looking for his next meal when he came upon two men. One man was sitting under a tree reading a book; the other man was writing in a notebook. The lion quickly pounced on the man reading the book and devoured him. Even the king of the jungle knows that readers digest and writers cramp.

Audio Book

After an enthusiastic recommendation from my wife, I began listening to the audio-book version of a novel.

"I love it, but his writing style is so disjointed," I complained. "He refers to characters I don't know and introduces them a half hour later."

My wife was as confused too, but I soldiered on, disoriented by the jumpy story line. It wasn't until the end of the book that my dilemma was explained: I had my iPod set on "Shuffle."

Car Pool

A man learned shortly before quitting time that he had to attend a meeting. He tried unsuccessfully to locate his car pool members to let them know that he would not be leaving with them.

Hastily he scribbled a message to one fellow and left it on his desk, "I have a last minute meeting. Leave without me. Dave."

At 7:00 p.m., he stopped back at his desk and found this note, "Meet us at the bar and grill across the street. You drove, you idiot."

Very True

You never know when it will strike, but there comes a moment when you know that you just aren't going to do anything productive for the rest of the day.

Screenplay

I'm writing a horror screenplay. It starts off with a ringing phone. The person answers, and it's their mom saying, "I have a computer question."

My Life

My life flashed before me and Netflix recommended three better lives.
