Shopping

"You just go ahead," the man in the shopping mall said to his wife. "While you're shopping, I'll browse in the hardware store."

An hour later, she returned and saw him at the checkout counter. The clerk was ringing up the last of a pile of tools and supplies that would fill two wheelbarrows.

"Are you buying all this?" his wife asked incredulously.

"Well, yes," he said, embarrassed. Then waiving his arm toward the interior of the store, he added, "But look at all the stuff I'm leaving behind."

Duck Crossing

A duck is standing next to a busy road, cars zooming past while he waits for a break in traffic.

A chicken walks up to him and says, "Don't do it, man. You'll never hear the end of it."

Speech Problem

A young schoolboy was having a hard time pronouncing the letter "R" and all the other kids are, of course, teasing him about it.

To help him out, the teacher gave him a sentence to practice at home, "Robert gave Richard a rap in the ribs for roasting the rabbit so rare."

In class a few days later, the teacher asked the boy to recite the sentence out loud.

The boy nervously eyed his classmates—many of them laughing—then replied, "Bob gave Dick a poke in the side because the bunny wasn't cooked enough."

Mad Judge

Heckling in the courtroom had constantly interrupted the trial, and the judge had had enough. "The next person who interrupts the proceedings will be thrown out of my court!" he said severely, at which the defendant yelled, "Hooray!"

Vegetable Stand

Driving through farm country, I stopped at a vegetable stand. It was deserted except for a sleeping German shepherd.

I stepped over the dog, helped myself to some corn, then opened the cash box to pay.

Taped to the inside of the lid was this note: "The dog can count."

Policeman

I had a knock at my door earlier, it was a policeman.

"Mr. Cook?" the policeman asked.

"Yes," I replied.

"I'm afraid your dog has just been reported to have chased someone on a bike."

I said, "That's not possible, my dog doesn't have a bike."
